

The personal information you provide in your Accident Claims Benefit Package (i.e. AB-1, AB-1A, AB-2, AB-4) is collected under the authority of the Insurance Act, Alberta's Automobile Insurance Accident Benefits Regulations, Diagnostic and Treatment Protocols Regulation and all applicable privacy legislation.

Your primary health care practitioner or dentist will need to collect personal information from you and from other health service providers and will need to use and disclose your personal information to provide you with appropriate diagnosis, treatment and care. Your insurance company and its agents will need to collect, use and disclose personal information from you, your primary health care practitioner, and other health service providers concerning the accident, your injuries, any pre-existing conditions that may impede your recovery process, the amount of treatment and care provided to you, and any assessments of your injuries and indications as to your treatment progress in order to facilitate contact with you, to determine your eligibility for accident and/or disability income benefits, and to administer your claim.

Under applicable privacy legislation, it is necessary to obtain your consent to authorize the sharing of your personal information as specified above. The legislation also regulates how primary health care practitioners, dentists, other health service providers, and insurance companies can use and disclose your information once they have it. Parts 5 and 6 of form AB-1 will ask for your consent or that of your agent. Refusal to provide your authorization and consent could result in an inability to provide you with the treatment and care you require (if not covered by Alberta Health Care Insurance) and may result in an inability for your insurance company to process your claim, in whole or in part. Your primary health care practitioner, dentist or other health service provider and insurance company will retain and rely on a copy of your consent for the period of time that your treatment and care is ongoing and your claim is active. You may revoke your consent at any time in writing to your primary health care practitioner or dentist and your insurer or any other person to whom you give consent, subject to continuing legal obligations. If you have any questions concerning the collection, use or disclosure of your personal information, please ask your primary health care practitioner, dentist, or your insurance claims representative or adjuster.
